

Broadcast Panelists/Subject Matter Experts

Maureen Buell

*Correctional Program Specialist
National Institute of Corrections*

Dona K. Zavislan

*Warden
Colorado DOC - Denver Complex*

Diana Lapp, M.D.

*Deputy Chief Medical Officer
Unity Health Care*

Janelle Prueter

*Director
Corrections & Community
Reentry Programs
Treatment Alternatives for Safe Communities (TASC)*

Michelle Hoersch

*Regional Women's Health Coordinator
Public Health Advisor
Office of Women's Health
US Dept. of Health & Human Services*

Catherine Fisher Collins, D.Ed.

*Associate Professor, Author, Researcher
State University of New York
Empire State College
Cheektowaga, NY*

Kevin Gause

*York Correctional Institution
Connecticut Department of Correction*

TeCora Ballom, M.D.

CAPT, USPHS
*South Central Region
Bureau of Prisons*

---

Is your organization looking for answers to the following questions?

*What are the unique health care needs of women and girls in correctional settings?
How can we respond to them in cost effective ways while being gender responsive?*

How can we apply the public health model to our health care treatment practices for justice-involved women?

What is the critical role of leadership advocacy in bringing about systems change in the health care treatment of justice-involved women and girls?

What is the ACE (Adverse Child Experiences) Study and how can it inform corrections and juvenile justice health care practices?

Register online for NIC's upcoming live satellite/Internet broadcast

Health, Justice, Women Transforming Systems—Changing Lives

Participating Sites

See
www.nicic.gov/
Broadcasts
for more information
about
NIC satellite/Internet
broadcasts
and instructions
for site coordinators.

NIC's live satellite/Internet broadcasts offer corrections professionals an interactive video forum on current and pressing topics in corrections. These broadcasts are interactive and allow participants to engage with and learn from experts around the world.

Delivered via satellite and Internet streaming, the broadcasts are available for download by any individual, agency, or facility nationwide. Participants can view the broadcast individually on a computer screen or use a projector to enlarge the signal for a sizeable audience. Registration is required, but there is no charge.

LIVE SATELLITE/ INTERNET BROADCAST

www.nicic.gov/Training/SIB12S9002

Closed captioned for the hearing impaired.

When:
August 15, 2012
12 noon to 3 p.m.
Eastern Time
Register online by:
August 15, 2012

Health, Justice, Women Transforming Systems--Changing Lives

According to the Bureau of Justice Statistics Prisoners in 2010, 112,822 women were under the jurisdiction of state and federal correctional authorities by the end of 2010. An additional 712,804 were under the authority of state, local, or federal probation or paroling authorities. Girls accounted for an additional 9,434 offenders in juvenile residential placement settings. Statistics also show that female offender populations continue to grow at a rate disproportionate to their actual population compared with male offenders.

Women and girls enter the criminal justice system with distinct and unique health care needs. Most are in their child bearing years, may have children, are victims of abuse, have a mental health diagnosis, or typically exhibit more misconduct than male offenders. This complex mix of needs effects a system's ability to work effectively as it draws upon a higher percentage of resources to care for female offenders.

During this national discussion sponsored and broadcast by the National Institute of Corrections, participants will explore research, strategies, and resources designed to effect health care practices used with justice-involved women. At the conclusion of this broadcast, participants will be able to:

- Define and describe the unique health care needs of women involved with the justice system.
- Apply the public health model to working with justice-involved women in corrections settings.
- Express the critical role leaders play in creating systems and organizational processes that meet the health care needs of justice-involved women.
- Identify strategies, resources, and partnerships that address the health care needs of justice-involved women as they reenter their communities.

Register online at www.nicic.gov/Training/SIB12S9002.
The deadline for registration is August 15, 2012.

Register Online

Visit

www.nicic.gov/Training/SIB12S9002

Also find online information and instructions for site coordinators.

Who Should Attend

- Health Care Providers to Adult and Juvenile Female Offenders in Correctional Settings
- Adult and Juvenile Correctional Leaders from All Settings
- Women in Government
- Medical Association Members
- Correctional Association Members
- Public Health Association Members
- Government Health, Public Health, and Public Safety Offices
- Community Providers of Women Offenders Health Care Services
- Reentry Coordinators and Local Reentry Collaboratives

Find your time zone/Know your conference time—

August 15, 12 noon to 3 p.m. Eastern Time

Central Time: 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Mountain Time: 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.
Pacific Time: 9 a.m. to 12 noon

All agencies that register will be accepted. There is no charge for registration.